

Jesus falls for the second time.

VII

"Jesus Falls for the Second Time"

edited, compiled, and written by Josh Bowron

Charlotte, 2019

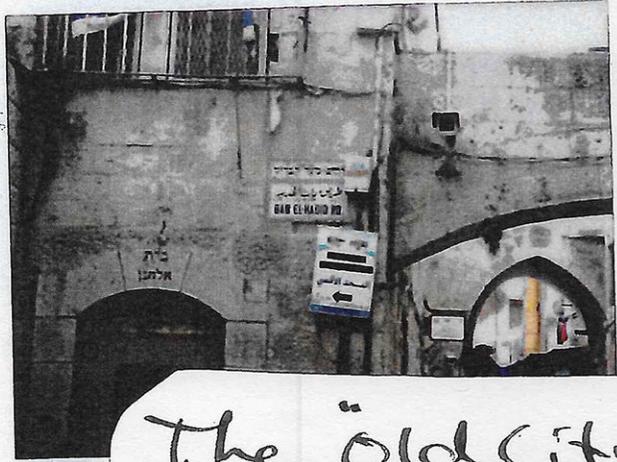

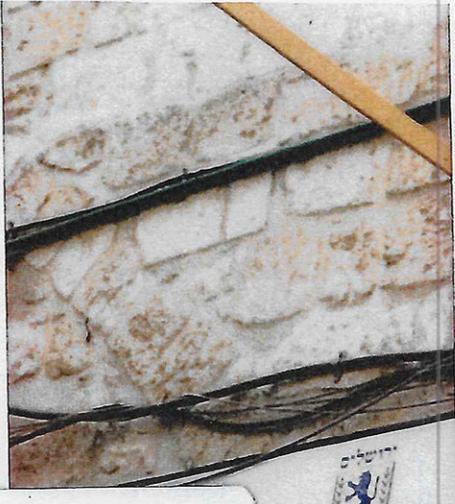

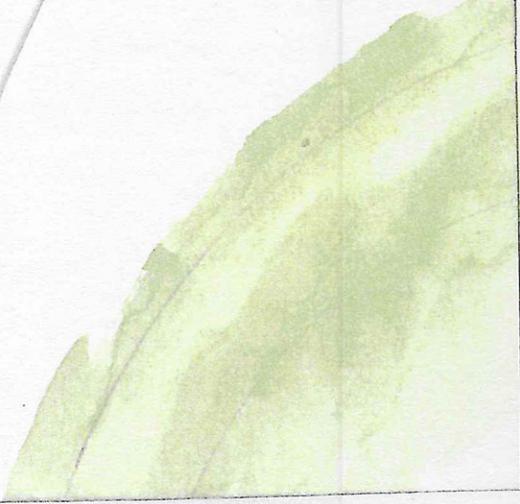

Stained glass art:

Katherine Lamb Tait

Lamb Studios

@

St. Martin's Episcopal Church, Charlotte.

The "Old City" of Jerusalem, has been destroyed and rebuilt many times.

There's a path that leads through the city.

The via Dolorosa

"painful way"

It is not,
but it is,
the path that Jesus walked on the way to his death.

The stations
of the walk
are marked
on the city's walls. The last
stops are in the Church of the Holy Sepulcher.

Stone of the Anointing

The Tomb of Jesus

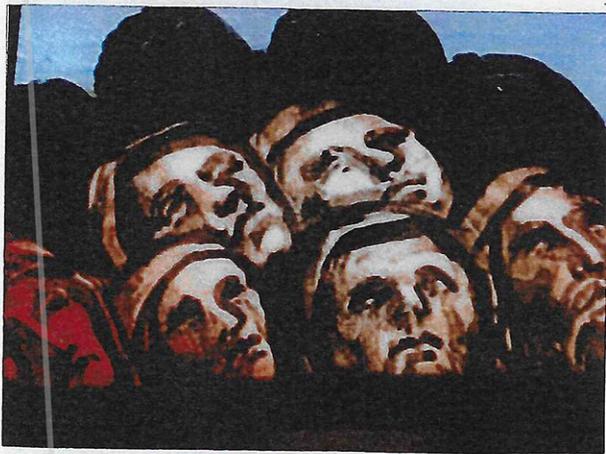

The Crucifixion

Why do people
walk a stations of the cross? what are they after?

If God
became a human, then...

What
is it
that is on the
cross?

Who, what,

is it

that falls?

When he falls, what
gets back up?